Marion Out of Van Sweringens' Rail Merger

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—
DETROIT, Mich., May 19 — Self-confidence usually means success. When John L. Sullivan met the Prince of Wales, grandfather of today's prize, John Smith, heavyweight champion of England, was present and in name to fight Kilrain.

Sullivan, who was to box for the Prince's debut with his sparring partner, Jack Ashton, said to the Prince:

"You English champion, is here, to fight me. I'm just off the boat and I'm not fit to fight with you. If I don't knock you out in two rounds, I'll go back to America."

THE Prince was delighted, but John Smith's manager said "No." A fight with no gate money, and no Sullivan, had no appeal. So Sullivan boxed with Ashton, John Smith fought with old Alf Greenfield. The Prince and his writer-entertainer, who were disappointed.

DETROIT, Mich., May 19 — John Smith, who was born in New York and now fights the Detroit Times, was with perfect seriousness.

DETROIT, Mich., May 19 — Fifty years from now will be saying, "New York was founded 25 years ago."

EVERY day is Henry Ford's busy day, but yesterday was unusually busy. The arrival from Philadelphia in the morning to meet the Bremen there, and his plant and had lunch on the train. Ford, head of the committee, was there.

ERIE EXCLUDED FROM COMBINE BY COMMISSION

Permits Chesapeake and Ohio To Acquire Control of Pere Marquette
MAY BE IN ANOTHER
Proposal Not "Free from Criticism," Says Ruling Hand-Ed Down

Marion is to be left out of the famous Van Sweringens billion dollar railroad merger for the present, at least. It was determined when the Interstate Commerce Commission gave a partial approval to the huge consolidation, but refused to permit the Erie to be included in the proposed system.

Approval was given that part of the plan whereby the Chesapeake & Ohio, controlled by the Cleveland financiers, will acquire stock control of the Pere Marquette.

The Erie, it is indicated, may later be included in another merger proposal. Paramount among the reasons advanced by the Van Sweringens for securing control of the Erie and Pere Marquette was the necessity for transporting the Chesapeake and Ohio's coal traffic more directly and efficiently by single line hauls and co-ordinated train service, particularly to Chicago, Detroit, and southern Michigan.

The Erie's function under the plan was to be principally to provide a low-grade, high-capacity line between Marion, O., and Chicago, for the movement of coal to Chicago and beyond.

Would Extend Territory
The commission said that no specific objection "from a transportation standpoint" had been presented with respect to the proposed control of the Pere Marquette.

"Such control would in effect extend the applicant's territory in a northerly direction, embracing a large part of Michigan, where a considerable amount of Chesapeake & Ohio coal is consumed, and would afford it a direct route to the lake ferries making connections with northwestern systems," the decision said.

"There would be created an enlargement of the extensions already accomplished by the applicant's control of the Hocking Valley. Regarded as a single system, the Chesapeake & Ohio, Hocking Valley and Pere Marquette would operate in competition with the Pennsylvania, New York Central and Erie, a considerable extent, with the Baltimore & Ohio, between the Atlantic seaboard on the east and the Great Lakes on the west."

AL SMITH PILES UP LEAD OVER NEED

Walsh, Although Withdrawn, Beats Missouri Solon in Oregon Race

Portland, Ore., May 19 — Gov. Alfred E. Smith was piling up a commanding lead over his opponents in the Democratic presidential choice in the Oregon state primaries as complete returns from 407 of the state's 1,783 precincts were tabulated today.

Smith, with 4,692 votes, was leading Senator Walsh of Montana, his nearest competitor, who withdrew from the primaries after the ballots were printed, by 1,627 votes. Walsh's 3,065 count impressively overpowered the 1,432 votes cast for Senator James Reed of Missouri. Altona Workman, also of Missouri, trailed the Democratic candidates.

Marion Physicians

Intimate Glimpses Into the Lives of Members of Marion County's Medical Fraternity Revealed in Series of Interviews by Inquiring Reporter

—BY EDNA S. DUTTON

ONE of the best-known physicians in the city is Dr. James W. McMurray, or "Doctor Jim," as he is known to practically every man, woman and child of his acquaintance, whose office is located at 228 E. Central.

Aside from the busy hours spent in attending to his duties as a physician, "Doctor Jim" finds time to devote to the interests of veterans of both the Spanish-American and World Wars and their activities, in which he plays a prominent part.

His love for horses is more than a hobby with him and those who remember the days when no parade was complete without a good representation of mounted soldiers, remember the parts played by Dr. Jim and his thoroughbred mounts.

It seemed written in the stars that Dr. McMurray should be a doctor, coming as he did from a family of well-known medical men. He began his practice here in 1897, when it took a wise and level-headed telephone girl to determine whether the frantic person at the other end of the line was calling Dr. A. B. McMurray, Dr. John McMurray, Dr. James A. McMurray, or the young Dr. McMurray, who had just hung out his shingle as a practicing physician in the city of Marion.

The first named physician was his uncle, the second his father and the third his cousin. Military Record

Dr. McMurray did not practice his profession long before he became identified with Company G, Fourth Regiment, O. N. G., under Captain Henry Love and attended camp at Nashville. The same year he was made corporal and on April 25, 1898, was made a sergeant, going to Camp Huachuca.

May 9, 1898, the company was summoned into service and on May 15 left for a camp in Georgia for a period of intensive training. On July 22 the company left camp for Newport News, Va., from where it embarked on the St. Paul for Porto Rico, landing Aug. 3. Dr. McMurray, with his company, participated in the taking of Yaguajay on Aug. 5, and was again in active service on Aug. 8. They continued in the Porto Rican engagement until early in November, when the company returned to America and Dr. Jim to Marion, where he was held under blanket order until Jan. 20, 1899, when he was mustered out. A red letter day in his life was when he, with 100 others of the old regiment, returned to Porto Rico in 1923 for their twenty-fifth reunion on Aug. 5.

Dr. Jim was again called to duty during the street car strike in Cleveland, in 1899, when his regiment was reorganized for service. At this time he was made assistant regimental surgeon with the rank of captain. June 7, 1900, he was made regimental surgeon with the rank of major, and continued in the national guard until 1912 when he was put on the retired list at his own request. During his military career Dr. McMurray attended school for medical officers of the National Guards at Fort Sam Houston, Austin, Texas. In 1911 and had been with every active camp of the regiment, with one exception, and this because of illness.

Organization Connections
Dr. McMurray has been a member of the Association of Military Surgeons for 25 years and is affiliated with the disabled Veterans of the World War, Medical Officers' Association of the World War, American Association of Roentgenology and Radiology and of the Ohio State Medical Association.

He served two terms as president of the Marion County Medical Society and one year as secretary of the organization. Fraternally he is affiliated with Marion Lodge, No. 70, F. & A. M., Scottish Consistory, Columbus, Alabama Shrine, Chattanooga.

His military affiliations here are with Marion Camp, No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans and Bird-McIntosh Post, No. 102, American Legion, of which he is now commander. He holds the rank of captain in the Medical Reserve Corps.

Dr. McMurray was born Sept. 1, 1867, in the house owned by his grandfather, James L. Wilson, which stood where the Fahey building is now located on N. Main-st.

His father was the late Dr. John McMurray and his mother is Mrs. Minerva Wilson McMurray, residing on E. Farmington st.

He moved with his parents in 1875 to West Salem and later to Warren, returning to Marion in 1883. He attended school in Garrettsville and after leaving school was employed with the McMurray-Fisher Sully Works, the Warner & Edwards Co., with which he was affiliated for a period of five years. In 1889 he went to Findlay, where he worked for a period of three years with two of the large drygoods stores, and in 1892 he went to Cleveland, where he was employed with the William Taylor Son & Co. and the E. M. C. A., where he finished his school work. He then entered Stirling Medical College, from where he graduated in 1897.

Dr. McMurray was married in 1912 to Mrs. Alice Conklin O'Connor, and has two daughters, Minerva, 15, and Mariet, 14.

Activities And News

WILL ORGANIZE BOARD
BOY SCOUTS in Marion and the Harding Area will have the advantage of instruction by trained specialists within the next several weeks when the Harding Area Scout, Merit Badge Counselors' board is organized under the Scout Executive W. C. Brown.

Although Scouts in the past have turned to leading men in various branches of work for instruction, this will be the first time that efforts have been directed to obtain such an organization.

The plan will first be put into effect in Marion where a board of at least ten members will be formed in the near future. This system will be followed out in all counties in the area.

When a Scout is ready to pass a merit badge test he will obtain a card from Executive Brown directing him to a man who is trained in that line of work. After this man approves the work of the Scout he will send a card to Brown giving his okay to the merit badge.

This system is expected to provide Scouts with the advantages of specialized training. Fifty members of the board are expected to cover all activities of this sort.

First steps will be made toward securing men to approve the Merit Badges.

FIRST TO SIGN UP
To Wilbur Sides, Troop No. 4 of Kenton, goes the honor of being the first Scout in Harding Area to sign up for a period at Camp John A. Brown, south of Marion. Sides' registration card was received at Scout headquarters here today.

Camp will open on June 18, coinciding to Aug. 11. With the close of school year entry blanks are expected to literally pour into the local offices. Camp catalogs were sent to Scouts last week.

SCOUTS FIGHT FIRE
Troop No. 2 of Marion gave the honor of doing the best good turn of the week. Members of the troop, while returning from a hike Sunday afternoon, arrived at the H. W. Baxter farm west of Marion in time to aid in preventing a fire from consuming several outbuildings. The residence was destroyed.

This was cited as one of the examples where a Scout Troop can be of service to a community. "Be Prepared" is the motto of Scouting and a true Scout in living up to it must be ready for any emergency at any time. Scout history is filled with examples of good deeds done by troops and their members.

HELL GET 'EM UP
To one Marion Scout will go the honor, or perhaps distinction, of being the most "disturbed" boy attending camp this summer, that is for a short time at least.

More than one Scout of the Harding Area has felt like doing dark deeds when at 6:25 in the morning the "beautiful" tones of the bugle put an end to several enjoyable hours of sleeping after a day of hard work and playing.

ESTABLISH RECORD
A record of mobilizing 91 percent of their membership in 20 minutes has been established by Troop No. 5. A hike is being planned by the troop.

REPRESENTATIVE NAMED
Granville Brown has been chosen as representative on the Patrol Leaders' Council by Troop No. 2. The troop is also planning a test mobilization.

BEGINS DUTIES
Bert Bruns has taken over his duties as scoutmaster of Troop No. 4. A new patrol has been formed, with Robert Glosser serving as patrol leader. The troop is planning a hike in two weeks.

PLAN FOR MEMORIAL DAY
Although no definite program has been mapped out, Marion Boy Scouts are laying plans for participation in the annual Memorial Day observances here.

Mobilization Test
Troop No. 1 of Marion at its last meeting held a practice mobilization under the direction of Dr. Herman Rhu, scoutmaster. Following the test a camp fire supper was held.

Chicago Girl Proves Sheiks Poor Lovers!

Was pretty American girl's love-affair with French Hero true cause of Foreign Legion Victory?

WHEN Mary Vanbrugh, pretty Chicago journalist, left the Windy City, last August, to visit North Africa and the Sahara, little did she dream that within six months she would be the fiancée of a French Foreign Legion hero, and internationally famous as the girl who helped subdue the rebellious Sahara tribesmen. As a matter of fact, if she had any dreams at all they were about fierce, passionate desert sheiks and not about the gallant Beau Geste of the French Foreign Legion.

Miss Vanbrugh's swift moving romance is almost unbelievable. Caught at a desert outpost in a sudden savage uprising of the Touraigs, "Scourge of the Desert," she fled for her life with Major De Beaujolais, Foreign Legion hero, then on a secret mission for France. In native costume they wandered through the Sahara—constantly facing danger and death, until at last they reached the Great Oasis and sought the protection of Sheik El-Hamel, powerful desert ruler.

De Beaujolais endeavored to secure El-Hamel's aid against the Touraigs, but the Sheik refused to ally himself with France unless Miss Vanbrugh was turned over to him. Finally De Beaujolais won him over, and by sensational strategy the Touraigs were conquered in a thrilling desert battle.

See Evelyn Brent, as courageous Mary Vanbrugh, handsome Gary Cooper as the gallant De Beaujolais, Noah Beery as the four-fushing El-Hamel, and William Powell as Becque, renegade rebel leader, in Paramount's sensational picture from Major P. C. Wren's great novel, the thrilling sequel to "Beau Geste."

IDEAL PLACE FOR RESIDENCE

Subdivision More Beautiful
Than Ever: New Dwellings
Under Construction

Vernon Heights, beautiful residence subdivision located in the southeast section of the city, has undergone remarkable growth and development during the comparatively few years which have elapsed since the land was platted and lots were first offered for sale to persons desiring choice home sites.

This development has been especially marked during the last two or three years and this spring finds the subdivision presenting an unusually attractive picture.

The trees, shrubbery and parkways this year are more beautiful than ever before, and within a few days the flowering crab trees that are set between the elms on the boulevard will be in full bloom, a sight worth driving out to see.

The land, consisting of 172 acres, is generally high and rolling. There are six improved streets outside of the boulevard. Twenty homes have already been built and four more are under construction. Three of them are on the boulevard and are being built by J. L. Price, Harry Haberman and William Lawler. The new brick on the corner of King and Beasley is being built by Arden Millner, local contractor.

Charles Isaly is now having plans prepared for a new home at the extreme west end of the Vernon Heights property and on the boulevard between Lexington and McKinley Park-East.

R. T. Lewis, who has charge of the improved sections of Vernon Heights, reports the sale of two fine home sites on the boulevard last month—one 85 feet in width and one 60 feet and states that prospects are promising for an excellent year—both in sales and in the building of new homes. Mr. Lewis states that it is much easier to effect sales now since the original plan or vision has become a fact. The restrictions imposed are not prohibitive, as proven by several modest but attractive homes already built.

Protection Valuable
However, these restrictions or in other words, investment insurance, appeal to folks who want to know the major investment of their lives—a home and its environment, is going to be protected against undesirable encroachments.

Vernon Heights is away from the smoke and dirt of the busy business and factory sections—away from the railroads and the national and state highways where tourist travel is heavy and dangerous for children. Vernon Heights School is within one block of Vernon Heights entrance.

All improved lots are free from assessments, except the limestone roads. The Vernon Heights Co. paid for all sewers, sidewalks, gas and water pipes when they were laid in their second addition. The half year tax on an average 50-foot lot on Beasley is $4.25 and the street assessment is $6.25, these figures representing approximately the taxes on average lots in general.

Prices of average lots range from $1,500 up.

Homes may cost $5,000 on the average and not less than $6,000 on the boulevard and plans must be approved by the Vernon Heights Co. The company reports all improved home-sites sold on the boulevard and Beasley East, one 25-foot home-site on Bedford, eight home-sites on King, five on Concord and a few on East Beasley. Just 10 fully improved lots remain unsold on the boulevard. One of these is 100x200 feet in dimensions.

Boulevard Extension
The boulevard is being extended at present through to the Memorial at Delaware and with a partial extension through to McKinley Lake. The Memorial section of the boulevard will be of asphalt and is planned to be fully completed by June, and the new section in Vernon Heights will be started immediately afterward. When completed it will be one and one-third miles long from Mt. Vernon to Delaware—and nearly a quarter mile further through to the lake.

The boulevard is 100 feet wide, consisting of two main driveways, each 20 feet wide, a 24-foot parkway between them and a 12-foot lawn between curb and sidewalk on either side. The west drive is used by south traffic and the east drive by traffic going north. The double driveway will be a big advantage to pleasure drivers when this big improvement is completed.

The absence of telephone and electric poles and wires on the street add a lot of character and beauty to Vernon Heights. All meters are placed in the garage and the wires are brought to the homes in conduits so there are no overhanging wires included in your garden view.

When fully improved and built up Vernon Heights will undoubtedly be one of the most beautiful home sections in Ohio. It is already one of the show places of the city.

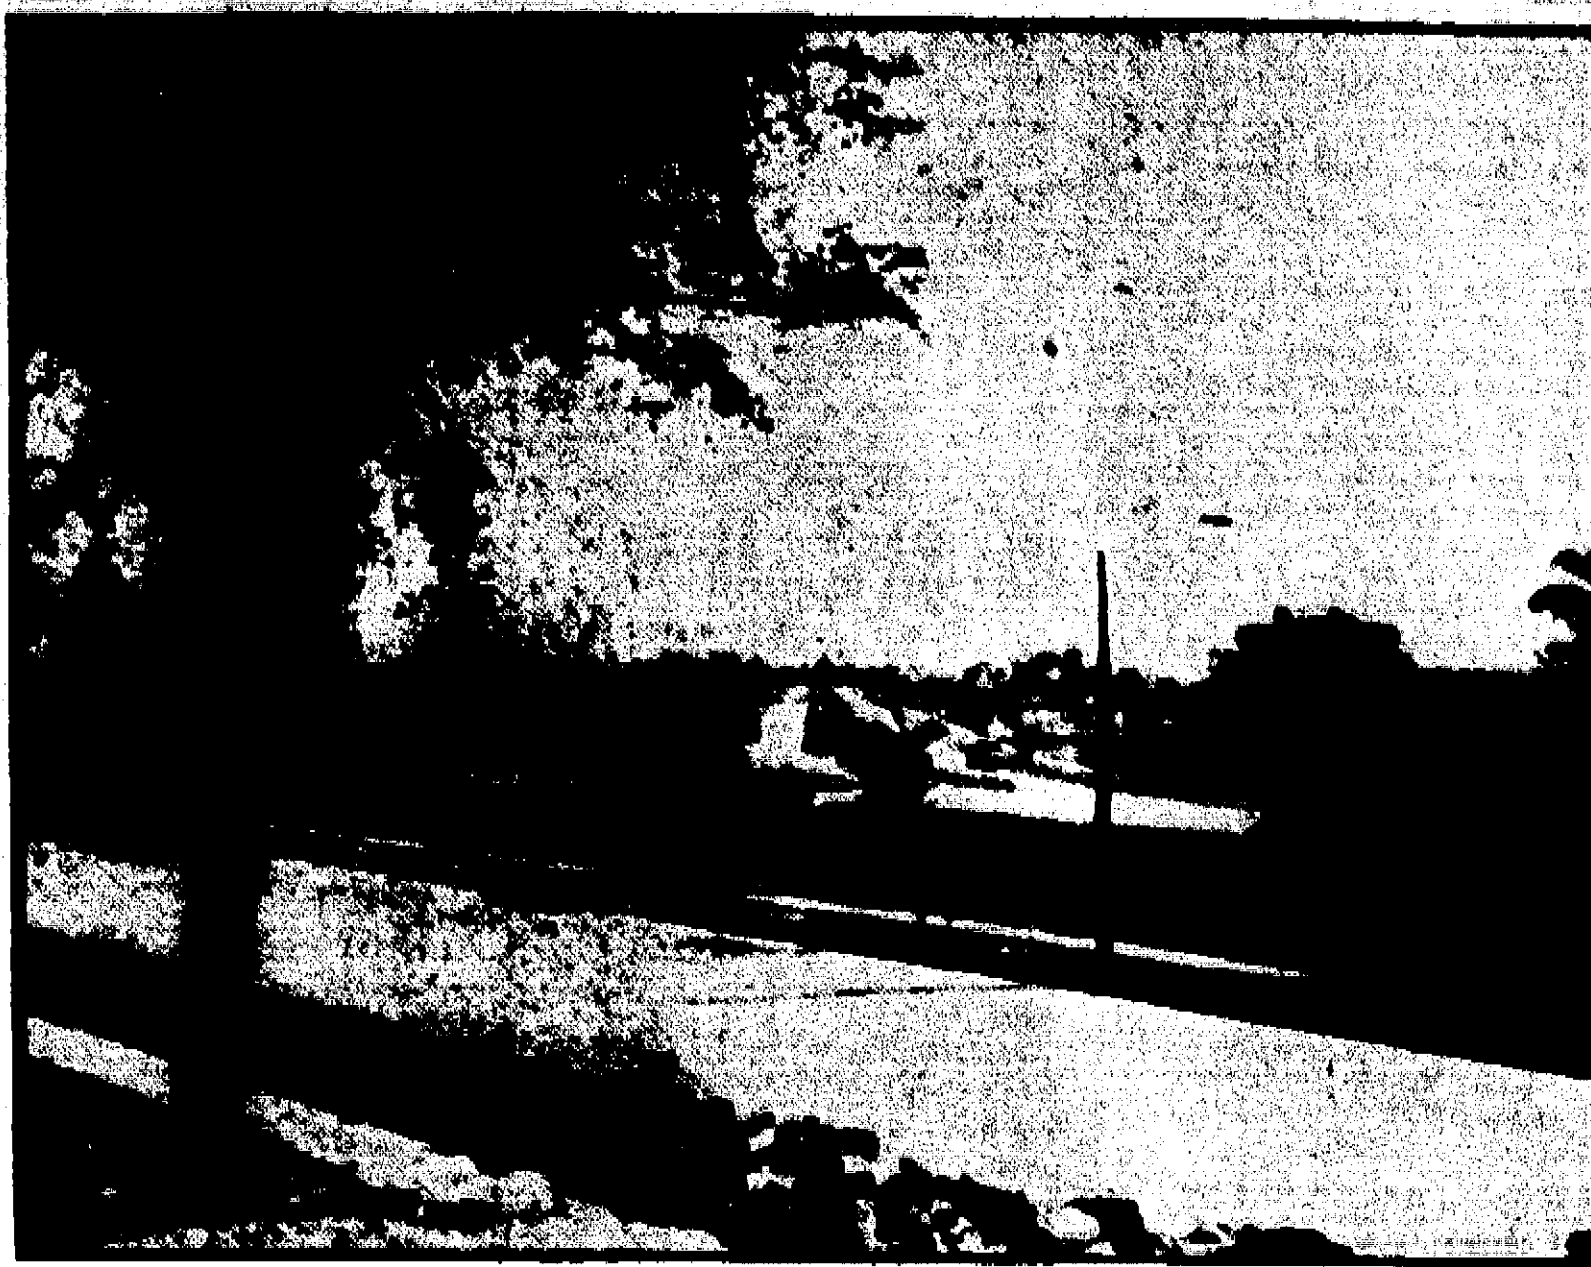

The unimproved lots and acreage of Vernon Heights is in charge of George R. Knapp. This portion of the company's property will be improved as conditions warrant.

Maintenance Fund
A maintenance fund cares for the mowing of the grass and the replacing of trees and shrubbery throughout the subdivision.

Mr. Lewis insists that Marion has hit its stride, that our private and public improvements so far this year are not far from the million dollar mark, that in another year Marion will look like a new city to visitors as well as to its citizens, that Vernon Heights is the one place where the demands for location and environment can be fully met—and ends his statement by saying that it costs no more to build a new home in Vernon Heights than elsewhere, that the present prices are certainly very reasonable and that Marion people are now beginning to realize and appreciate the great asset that this beautiful subdivision is to the community.

SWEET CORN IS NEW ARRIVAL ON MARKET

First Offered by Local Dealers
This Week at 10 Cents
an Ear

Sweet corn, which made its appearance in small shipments on the local markets early this week and which moved slowly at 10 cents an ear, was practically the only new arrival on the vegetable market this week. The supply was small and the quality indifferent. Some water corn also made its appearance on the market this week. The quality was good and dealers reported a ready sale at 15 cents a bush. Prices in the main were unchanged from last week. Strawberries were more plentiful and the middle of the week found prices taking a downward trend. Good quality berries could be bought at 25 cents a quart. Larger and more select stock were selling at 30 cents. Home grown berries are expected to appear on the market early in June, but the crop, it is said, will be light.

Home-grown asparagus has been plentiful here all week and large bunches were selling at two for 25 cents. New potatoes continue to grow in favor although old stock continues to supply the bulk of the demand at 35 cents a peck. New potatoes, which held at three pounds for 25 cents during most of the week, were being offered by many dealers today at five pounds for 25 cents.

CHARGES OF HERESY FILED AGAINST MEN

Books Written by Two Bishops Attacked at Conference

Kansas City, Mo., May 10.—Heresy charges against Bishop William F. McDonnell of the Washington, D. C., area and Bishop Francis J. McConnell of Pittsburgh, Pa., were brought before the Methodist Episcopal General Conference here today by the Rev. George A. Cooke, a retired minister of Wilmington, Del.

The Reverend Cooke, who is not a delegate or in active church service, presented his charges to R. J. Wade, secretary of the conference and based them on "teaching of false doctrine" in two books, one "That I May Save Some" by Bishop McDonnell and "Religious Certainty" by Bishop McConnell.

Secretary Wade referred the charges to the committee on heresy and a report is expected some time next week.

Reverend Cooke recently brought charges of immorality against Bishop McConnell which were dropped on the floor of the general conference. The minister has sought to present the charges he preferred today in two previous general conferences.

SAYS FARMERS ARE FACING VITAL TEST

Trux Tolls Students American Agriculture Is Struggling for Equality

Columbus, May 10.—"The farmers of Ohio and the nation are engaged in one of the most vitally important struggles the world has ever witnessed—a test of whether this advanced American agriculture, as distinguished from, and on a higher level than, the peasant agriculture, can endure, as declared Charles V. Trux, director of agriculture today.

"A restored farm property can be obtained only by educating our citizenship to the real condition and needs of agriculture," Trux continued.

"Considering the difficulties he has had to meet, the American farmer has done more to increase his efficiency than anyone else in our economic structure," Trux declared, addressing the graduates of the high school at Malinta, Henry County, last night.

Trux referred to the fact that Henry, Wood, Hancock, Putnam, Van Wert, Defiance and Fulton County farmers are shipping a carload of milk to Chicago daily and that, during the last six months, this district received $1,500,000 for its milk and dairy products.

Trux, in referring to this part of Ohio, said that tuberculosis during the last three years.

KENYON INSTRUCTOR GIVES CLASS ADDRESS

Mt. Gilboa Seniors Are Presented Diplomas by C. W. Gordon

Mt. Gilboa, May 10.—Dr. William F. Peirce, president of Kenton College, delivered the class address at the annual commencement exercises of the Mt. Gilboa High School held last night. The valedictory was delivered by Mrs. Bernice Peoples and the students were presented their diplomas by C. W. Gordon, president of the school board.

Dr. Peirce was introduced by P. E. Arnold, superintendent of the school. Dr. Peirce compared the standing of schools in various countries, showing how our schools were superior, in fact, the people were the direct ruling force. In England and in France the control is not placed nearly so directly in the hands of the people, and, according to Dr. Peirce, in France the system is controlled entirely by a central man at Paris, and the people have no control whatever. He also pointed out that a movement was the most important common event of the year.

Dr. Peirce chose for the main topic of the evening, the foreign relations and their importance. Quoting from a book recently written by a famous Frenchman, he discussed the topic of the book which was to the effect that "America Has Come of Age." In this book, the author remarked that "the peoples on the coast were more interested in foreign relations than those states centrally located and pointed out how Ohio was among the states uninterested, although bordering on a foreign country. He advised a more serious consideration of foreign relations and cited examples of international discontent between countries such as Mexico, Salvador, and Argentina. He stated that this condition was bound to bring destruction much in the same manner it did to the Romans, and asked the question if America had really come of age, and if it had, was it to perish as did Rome? In closing, he warned the actors, who he said were the citizens of tomorrow, to give a more thoughtful consideration to foreign relations and to act so as to serve the country in the best possible way.

Hunt for Coyote Planned Next Week Near Kenton

Kenton, May 10.—A coyote, the slinking dog of the prairie and the killer of lambs and chickens, has been reported as roaming in this section by three prominent farmers and preparations are being made today for the forming of a posse which next week will hunt out the marauder.

No chickens have been missed by the farmers near here but a number of pheasants have been killed, according to reports.

It is believed the animal has its lair along the Scioto River about nine miles from here.

Two weeks ago, a coyote was killed south of Lima, near St. John, while about two years ago, another coyote was killed near Ada by Roy Epley after an all-day chase in which 300 men took part.

Most of the farmers in this section are busy planting corn, so the hunt was fixed for next week.

MAY NAME SANITY BOARD FOR LUTZ

Crawford County Farmer Pleads Guilty When He Is Arraigned

Bucyrus, May 10.—Appointment of a sanity commission to judge the mental condition of Dale Lutz, 37, alleged "pyromaniac" who is being held in Crawford County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond, will be the latest development in the "fire barn fire case" according to reports here today.

When arraigned yesterday Lutz pleaded guilty to charges of burning a barn on the Lafayette Yergley estate farm and he was held to the grand jury, which is not scheduled to meet until September, on $10,000 bond.

New evidence has been uncovered by investigators of which is expected to meet him with the other barn fires which for the past two months have been terrifying farmers in this locality. It was stated.

The investigators said that they have found tin cans, similar to the one which caused Lutz's arrest, in the ruins of some other barns. Authorities charged that Lutz used these cans to carry kerosene to feed the flames and give them a start.

Asked why he set fire to the barns Lutz said, "I don't know. It was just a fool notion."

County officials are also continuing their investigation into the sixth barn fire which caused $1,000 damage to the barn on the James Coulter farm on the morning after Lutz was confined in prison. Authorities expressed the belief that "some unknown friends" of Lutz set fire to this barn to throw off suspicion from the alleged "fire-bug."

You Can Decide the Future Today

If you were the head of an industry looking for a new location where would you go—to the city having an adequate supply of gas or to the one where permanent gas service could not be assured?

Industries will not take chances. They select the cities that can offer them the most in fuel supply.

Marion now awaits a decision. It has a choice to make that will decide whether or not it will be ranked among the prosperous industrial centers or be content to drag along.

Other cities are making efforts to attract Marion's industries. If these cities can offer a permanent supply of gas Marion will soon be faced with industrial and employment want.

The choice rests with Marion. Your Gas Company is ready to do all in its power to help Marion grow. Gas is the lifeblood of Marion's industries and your recognition of the fact that GAS IS WORTH MORE means assuring the future of Marion.

A Brooklyn gang leader was slain by four rivals soon after winning his title by throwing dice. The evil of gambling simply can not be exaggerated!

The home of a member of the Chicago jury which tried a notorious gangster up there this week has been bombed. Pleasant place of residence, that!

A hat once worn by Napoleon brought $15,000 at a Paris auction. That's a heap sight more than we would give for it even were it demonstrated that Napoleon had worn it twice.

A New York woman has sued her mother-in-law for $200,000 for the alienation of her husband's affections. A few more suits like that and we husbands will be liable to grow cheery.

Governor Lowden says he doesn't want to run for the presidency if the Republican party is unwilling to meet the farm issue. Let's see. What was it the pretty milkmaid replied?

The senate probe of the shooting of that Niagara Falls citizen by a coast guard developed the fact that the wound inflicted was by a bullet from a forty-five-caliber revolver. Possibly it hasn't as yet occurred to the enforcement officials to equip guards with elephant guns.

Federal Judge Thatcher, of Washington, has refused the injunction, sought by the All-American Anti-Imperialist league against federal interference with mail bearing Sandino stamps on the ground that the league didn't come into court with clean hands. Isn't that expecting an awful lot from a gang such as that?

Writing to a Columbus paper and boasting "Know Ohio" week, our old agriculturist friend, the Hon. A. Putnam Sandies, was shunted off onto an inside page. How times have changed since the days when Put was the bright, particular star of all the free publicity artists of the Buckeye commonwealth!

The people of South Dakota are complaining that the thousands of pheasants resulting from the importation of a lot of those birds from Hungary to replace the game birds practically exterminated by hunters are literally eating up their gravel roads. Looks a bit like propaganda by the brick and cement people.

A Chicago judge has placed the bond of a gangster under arrest up there at $100,000, which means that it will be necessary for those giving a bond to establish the fact that they own real estate worth $200,000. It actually looks as though the courts of Chicago had concluded to give a little protection to the decent, respectable element of the city.

President Coolidge has signed the bill reducing the air mail postage rate from ten to five cents for the half ounce. If the rate keeps on dropping much longer the way it has in the last few years, the first thing we know Uncle Sam will be paying us for the privilege of carrying our letters.

A New York congressman charges that the proponents of the Boulder Dam project have killed all chance of the passing of the naval construction bill. They may have done their share, but at this distance it looks as though a lot of the members of congress lack the backbone to defy the pacifists and the other enemies of national preparedness arrayed against the naval program.

Visiting Knights and Ladies.

It is always pleasing to the people of our city to have organizations of recognized worth come to Marion for their state gatherings and that of the Knights of Columbus, who are assembling here this afternoon for their twenty-ninth annual convention tomorrow and over Monday, is in no sense of the word an exception to the rule.

From the hotel reservations already made and other advance information at hand, it is anticipated that the gathering for which the delegates are registering at the headquarters in Hotel Harding will be the largest and most successful in the history of the state organization.

The program for the two days has been so arranged that it should prove highly interesting and entertaining not only to the delegates and other visiting knights, but to their ladies as well, a number of pleasing social features being included for the entertainment of the ladies in addition to the dinner for Sunday evening—for which some very able speakers and entertainers have been secured—and the ball of the following night.

In the light of the arrangements made, it is hard to understand how the weather conditions being propitious, the convention can prove other than the enjoyable one our people hope and anticipate it will be—a gathering in all its features so pleasing that our visitors over the week-end will want to come to us again. That's the feeling we hope every one of them will realize that we of Marion have in our hearts,

An Asset May Prove a Liability.

A well-known New York City economist corporation, in a survey of the American investment situation which it is soon to issue, holds that the wealth of the United States has increased 4,000 per cent. since 1850 and has now reached the staggering total of $320,000,000,000.

A preliminary outline of the survey, among other features, contains the following comparisons of the present-day conditions with those of 1890:

The population has increased from 22,000,000 to 117,000,000; telephones to the number of 18,500,000 have been installed and wireless telegraphy, the radio and television developed; the value of manufactures has increased from $9,372,379,000 to $12,700,000,000; the tons of freight carried by the railroads have increased in volume over six times; farm products have increased in value from $2,460,000,000 to $19,700,000,000; exports have risen in value from $850,000,000 to $4,870,000,000; individual deposits in banks have increased from $1,080,000,000 to $48,880,000,000; automobiles to the number of 23,000,000 have been built, and a debt to Europe of $600,000,000 has been wiped out and replaced by a credit abroad of $14,000,000,000.

Such figures as these are amazing, yet a little reflection will incline to their acceptance, for practically all of them are matters of government, industrial or commercial record. In it any wonder, in the light of a record of such progress, that our prosperity as a nation should be the envy of the world? Is it any wonder that such material success should have aroused something of a feeling of jealousy on the part of nations less favored?

Such progress in material advancement as we have made in the past thirty-eight years, as shown by this survey, should put us on our guard, for that upon which we today look as an asset, unless we hold ourselves in preparedness to defend it, may prove a liability. Here we have the best argument for national preparedness which can be offered, an argument which is unanswerable.

The beggar need have no fear of thieves or robbers. It is from those who have that that which they have may be taken away.

A Hollywood screen actress fractured her skull when she fell over a balcony rail during the progress of a party at the home of a wealthy oil operator. It seems to us that it might be the part of wisdom to hold all Hollywood parties in bungalows.

Confessedly, we are a bit slow in the matter, but the fact that we thus far have been remiss will not stop us from paying tribute to good judgment where tribute is deserved.

We refer to that displayed by the members of the Junior chamber of commerce in cancelling the date for the local appearance of Clarence D. Chamberlin, who, with Charles A. Levine as a passenger, made the record non-stop flight of 3,111 miles in forty-two hours and thirty-one minutes from New York to Eisleben, Germany, about 110 miles south of Berlin.

There are many local people who would take pleasure in hearing Chamberlin tell the story of his hazardous flight, but the young men of the Junior chamber speedily discovered that there were not enough of those who were willing to support the project with their patronage to justify the hazard of bringing him here in the face of weather conditions which had many indications of being unfriendly, and they cancelled the date while they yet had time to do so gracefully.

We rather lean to the view that had the matter been in the hands of some organizations which we have in mind—and we are here judging by events of the past—the date might not have been broken; that the judgment manifested by the young men of the Junior chamber of commerce in recognizing the fact that all the conditions were against the success of the projected enterprise would not have been enudated.

We are glad that the young men had the judgment to follow the course they did. Just as good judgment can be manifested in letting go as in holding on, and the local young men manifested it.

The senate has passed the army bill, adding $6,000,000 for new projects to the $13,000,000 authorized by the house. No matter what the cost, our army should be housed in clean and comfortable quarters. The present housing of many commands have long been a reproach to the nation.

Benefits in Milk Drinking.

BY ROYAL S. COPPELAND, M. D.
While I was commissioner of health of New York City we had quite a campaign relating to school lunches. One of the big milk concerns supplied us with all the milk we needed to carry on an extensive test of the value of this plan.

After the experiment had developed we saw hundreds of skinny, undernourished children take on weight and improve in health. You could see the difference even in the hair of these little youngsters. The dead, lustreless hair would become shiny and improved in vigor.

It is a fact that it is extremely difficult to educate the public to any new idea. This is particularly true of anything relating to health, especially when it involves a fundamental thing as food. Everybody believes that he knows as much about what folks ought to eat as the best doctor in the world.

I well remember an amusing conversation I had with an uncle. We were back in Michigan soon after our first baby was born. This old uncle, nearly a hundred years old, asked whether we had given the infant any pork rind to chew on. He was greatly disgusted when he found the baby had had no pork rind, and said the youngster would never amount to anything until he did have it.

About foods every person has his own ideas. He dislikes to be told they are not well founded. If a child is told that breakfast is too long to wait until 12:30 for another meal. Furthermore, for one reason or another, a child may not get much for breakfast. In any event, by the time 10 o'clock arrives, a growing child is hungry. There is nothing to relieve the yearning for food better than a bottle of milk.

The fact about undernourishment is that it is not confined to the poor. The children of the rich are just as likely to have it. They need milk just as much as the poor child does.

The other day a Michigan lady wrote to ask my opinion of school lunches. I replied at once that I believe in them. In my opinion they are very helpful to the health and welfare of the child.

It isn't a good thing for a child to go hungry. Many a cross, irritable boy is that way because he is hungry most of the time. His irritability and his health will be improved by regular eating.

It must be kept in mind that a growing child needs much more food proportionately than a grown person. Not alone must the youngster eat to restore the waste, but he must eat to build bone and muscle and tissue.

What would be too much food for an adult might not be nearly enough for the growing boy or girl. That is the reason why the school lunch is needed. To eat at this time won't spoil the regular meal. A child's digestion is speeded up over time. Let us give the little folks all the good, wholesome, nourishing food they need.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

A. W. S. Q.—How much should I weigh, and how much should I eat?

A.—You should weigh about 132 pounds.

Q.—You should eat 132 pounds of food, including milk, eggs, fresh green vegetables, and fruits. Exercise daily in the open air and sleep as many hours as possible. Take a good tonic, such as cod-liver oil.

M. P. Q.—Can a person feel a floating kidney when it moves?

A.—Yes, sometimes.

Q.—What should a boy who is seventeen years old and five feet ten inches tall, weigh?

A.—For his age and height he should weigh about 148 pounds.

Q.—Proper dieting and deep breathing is the secret. You should eat nourishing foods and have plenty of sleep and rest. A tonic is often beneficial. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

R. Q.—What is the cause of a catarrh? Is it dangerous? When can it be removed? Will it affect the other eye?

A.—The cause is uncertain. No, except that it impairs the eye sight. It can be removed when it "rips," which time must be determined by an eye specialist.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

OUR NEW PAPER MONEY.

Reliable advice from Washington is that it will not be long before a new currency will make its appearance in circulation. Much has been printed about it and expectancy is widespread. The latest word about it comes from A. W. Hall, director of the bureau of engraving and printing. He says the presses are at work and the new bills are piling up by the tons. Soon they will be shipped from the bureau by the truck load to banks in all parts of the country to be put in circulation.

They will reach the public by being paid out in place of old bills turned in at the banks and collected for shipment to Washington. The old bills will be returned and destroyed. The printing is progressing rapidly. The smaller size of the new bills, approximately two-thirds the dimensions of the present ones, makes it possible, on the same presses, to turn out twelve new ones to eight old ones.

Not only is the size changed, but designs have been changed. This necessitated new plates. Such steel engraving is slow work, and that has been the main cause of the long time consumed in the preparation of the new currency since that work was first announced to the public. All designs have been simplified in some ways and complicated in others. Where there now are five kinds of $10 bills, there will be but one. Extra safeguards are provided against counterfeiting and raising. The silk threads have been abandoned and an infinite number of silk specks introduced, the change being effected by chopping minutely the long threads. One-dollar bills have a design like no other bill of a higher denomination. Thus, a one-dollar bill can not be raised successfully to one hundred because the one-hundred-dollar bill will have an entirely different design and a different portrait. For example, the one-dollar bill will carry the face of George Washington, the five-dollar bill will carry the face of Abraham Lincoln, and the ten-dollar bill will carry the face of Benjamin Franklin.

The one-hundred-dollar bill will bear the face of the eleven denominations shown on the backs. All of the eleven denominations will be produced in the same way. The change is being made in the same way as the change in the one-dollar bill. The new bills will be put in circulation in the same way as the old bills. The change is being made in the same way as the change in the one-dollar bill.

On the whole, the change is being received with favor, as naturally is to be expected, since it was determined on by the government until a full census had been made of banking and commercial conditions. Handers of currency will have only seven denominations to acquaint themselves with. All of these will be greenbacks. The yellow-backs will disappear with the final redemption of these in circulation. The change is being made in the same way as the change in the one-dollar bill.

As the interest of currency simplification quite as much as a matter of economy.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Ho, for the Moon.

BY GARRETT P. SERVING.

How seriously the idea of traveling through space from world to world is now taken in some quarters may be judged from a bulletin of nearly 100 large pages published by the Astronomical Society of France. It is the report of a lecture given before the society by Robert Esnault-Pelterie, who after an elaborate investigation of the question concluded, under certain reserves, depending upon continued scientific progress in mastering natural forces, that a voyage from the earth to the moon and back again, and even to and from the planets, Venus and Mars, is within the range of physical possibility.

The motor vehicle proposed by M. Esnault-Pelterie for such "astronautic" voyage is nothing more than a greatly-improved, transformed and enlarged rocket. In driving principle it resembles those that fill Fourth of July nights with fiery streaks and showers of colored sparks. The rocket takes the place of Jules Verne's imaginary hollow projectile, because it admits of being started with a controlled speed which may be gradually increased up to the critical velocity required practically to free it from the earth.

One of the first difficulties dealt with is the fact that the rocket must start with many times its weight of fuel. It is consumed on its way. Professor R. H. Goddard calculated some years ago that a rocket-projectile of this sort would have to consume 600 times its own weight of explosive material. But given more powerful explosives the proportions of weight may be greatly altered.

Another difficulty is to keep the starting velocity low enough to render it possible for human beings inside the projectile to survive the initial shock, and to regulate the subsequent acceleration so that it too would not be destructive to them. Jules Verne's cannon projectile, M. Esnault-Pelterie says, the adventurers would first have been crushed against the bottom of their chamber and then "killed a second time" against the top, as the projectile encountered the atmospheric resistance.

M. Esnault-Pelterie thinks that if hydrogen in an atomic state could be employed for the motive power, a practicable voyaging rocket might be made, whose acceleration would not exceed 2g, i. e. double the acceleration of gravity at the earth's surface, which is about thirty-two feet per second. But upon the whole he considers that real success will not be achieved until the energy in the atomic state has been made available for our use—a desideratum not now in sight, though by no means beyond the range of scientific hopes.

With an acceleration of 2g it is calculated that the rocket, carrying its voyagers, would attain the critical velocity necessary to complete the journey at a height of about 2,000 miles, a point that would be attained twelve-and-a-half minutes after the departure.

At that point there would be a sudden suppression of all sensation of weight, and the question is raised whether there might not be physiological effects. Bearing on this the effects on the heart and respiration produced by falling, or a too swift descent in an elevator are pointed out.

The time of the round trip to the moon is calculated at about four days and a half. But all the travelers on the surface of the earth during the thousands of years of history could never have gathered such inexhaustible material for narration, as would be in possession of those returned from the moon!

To get safely down upon the moon from the point of neutral attraction between it and the earth, M. Esnault-Pelterie shows, it would be necessary to have a braking force to check the fall, and this still more on returning to the earth, when the brake—provided by the same means used to drive the rocket—would have to be applied as soon as the critical point, 2,000 miles above the earth was again reached. An abundance of other curious considerations will be found in this remarkable paper, together with considerable mathematics.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Moritz Moszkowski—Composer.

BY COZETTE DOUGLASS.

One of the most prominent of the Polish composers, Moritz Moszkowski, was born in Breslau on August 23rd, 1854. He was the son of a family of independent means, who fostered the boy's genius by careful teaching at home during his early years. Later he was sent to continue his study of music at the Dresden conservatory and then to the conservatories of Stern and Kulik in Berlin. In the latter place, he taught for several years.

Moszkowski started as a pianist and his first concert in Berlin met with such success that it was followed by a series of concert tours which firmly established his reputation as a virtuoso.

Until 1892 Moszkowski lived in Berlin, but then moved to Paris, where he turned his attention to composing. It is interesting to note that it was after the domestic tragedy that almost ruined the composer's life that his best work was done. He is perhaps best known for his Spanish dances, although he also composed operas and more serious music.

Moszkowski's music was given to the world during the time of the transition from the great romantics to the modern impressionists. His compositions were distinguished by graceful melody and quaint rhythm.

Moszkowski had the knack of imitating the musical idioms of other lands. It has been said that he reached his height in the ballet music of his opera "Boadicea," produced in Berlin in 1892. He was capable of completely expressing himself, whatever his medium. A prolific composer, his taste and mentality saved him from anything approaching vulgarity of banality.

The World War ruined the composed financially and his last years were marked by ill health. He died in Paris on May 2, 1925.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, May 19.—The overflow from Algonquin's round table seems to have lodged at Sardi's, a medium-priced cafe in West Forty-fourth street. The Sardi crowd is composed of a bantering crew of columnists, press agents and second string dramatic critics.

The management employed a caricature sketch of the Broadway figures who lunch there and they stretch in paneled frames around the wall. This has whetted the curiosity of out-of-towners who know more about the Broadway personalities than the natives.

The Algonquin crowd, in its heyday—say it is a thing of the past now—was supposed to be a little more "choosy" in its selection. They aimed to be distinguished, to dramatize themselves and frown a little on lesser bodies. Human conceit probably never reached such an amusing altitude.

The saga of the Algonquin was that when they invited guests they must be of the literary eminence of a Michael Arlen or a Somerset Maugham. There have been a few ladies invited, but as a general thing honors were to men. Peggy Wood was the only woman member.

The original group of Algonquinists had a pontifical notion. It included William Murray, Alexander Woolcott, Brock and Mackay Pemberton, Deems Taylor, Robert Benchley and Arthur Samuels. They were friends, and began rounding in there every noon for lunch.

Later some others were accepted at the board, and still others found their presence greeted by an ominous silence. Out of the doubtless inspired by petty jealousy, grudge-bearings of literary back-scratching and collar-rolling, some of it was true and the rest a part of the legend.

Every great city offers these haunts, a myth about them expand. In the meanwhile it is probable there are many worthy literary figures who have no desire to be the object of a daily public "rubber-necking" at either a round table or Sardi's.

Now that Childs' restaurants will not serve water unless you yap for it on the theory that with meals is not healthful, it is reported a timid soul was seen in one of the places, clutching a big flask. The Childs' chain long ago went vegetarian and made red-blooded men almost impossible to get. Meat, as you know, is not very profitable for restaurants.

The orange drink business has become a mighty industry that Broadway is belatedly called "Orange Juice Gulch" by such specialists as Walter Winchell. In 1917 there were thirteen stands in Manhattan. Now there are 124, and twice that number is planned for next year. The name Nedick, by which most of the stands are named, was coined from the stationer, Nedick and Dickinson, original founders, made them millionaires. In some instances they pay $50,000 a year rental for the holes in the wall.

Tiled orange drinkeries draw a silk-hat and low-necked clientele after the play. Shot of gin in the juice makes an appetizer, the midnight snack and saves time, highly important to galloping New Yorkers going where.

Theater patrons bargaining for cut-price tickets at the auction under Gray's drug store might prefer a hectic slice of metropolitan life in the heart of Broadway. Buyers stand on the side lines with their ladies, and when they want to see is priced agreeably, to make a head-down football rush. And a back a little jostled, but happy, with their tickets. There is a flying wedge of uniform policemen to rescue those who may be set off their feet in the melee.

Add insults of the week. A head-ache? The next time you're in from the country, drop around to see us.—Copyright, 1928, the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, May 18—Matt Moore is going to work. The youngest of the Moore brothers hasn't been in a picture for ages and we have missed his smiling Irish countenance. Now he has signed to play the chief male attraction in "Howe of Blondest" by Harry Thew and George Hull.

The blonde is yet to be selected by Harry Thew, who is making this comedy for Columbia, but cheer up, "you ain't heard nothing yet." Hoy D'Arcy, rumored prospective bridegroom of Lila Grey Chaplin, plays an important role.

To return to the D'Arcy-Chaplin romance, it seems to be flourishing like the well-known Green Bay tree. Everywhere Hoy goes, Lila is sure to be. Neither of them can marry for some months, but unless there is a cooling of affection when the two divorce decrees are final, it will greatly surprise Hollywood if there isn't a marriage.

THE rapper with a slim silhouette, who lives on a lettuce leaf and a piece of pineapple, is due for a shock. David Wark Griffith is helping along the cause of the plump girl by considering Molly O'Day for the feminine lead in "The Pioneer Woman."

I think it's the laugh of the year. D. W., who pioneers endless film innovations, is about to throw modern traditions to the winds and cast in the leading role the girl First National executives decreed was too fat. Molly has been in Hot Springs, Ark., trying to rid herself of extra pounds and crying her heart out because of the gossip that she had eaten herself out of a job.

D. W., I hear it whispered, is entirely sold on the O'Day idea. He is greatly impressed with Molly's sister, Sally O'Neil, who does some real acting in his "Battle of the Sexes." And if it can be arranged, plumpness not.

Just Things

GRADUATION DAYS. THE sweet girl graduates in our midst once more and with her comes the annual grand array of the freshest of frocks. And what beauties the are, too. Look 'em over, on the streets and on the real thing and tell me this: haven't they got it all over the ones of yore? I won't say how many seem to say. Remember the agony of being fitted in the home gown? Imagine standing up before a large and appreciative audience and yodeling that beyond the Alps lies Italy, or letting them in on the dope that Plato learned Greek at 80, in a gown that was longer in the back than in the front. When some of us were very young, it took the eagle eyes of the entire family and the eyes of a neighbor or two thrown in, to decide whether or not the skirt hung perfectly even. The skirt usually stood on a shaky kitchen chair and turned round and round while the craftsman, mouth full of pins, raised the hem a trifle here and lowered it the thousandth of an inch there. It was an endurance test for everybody, and the whole works was finished without the sign of a camera man or newspaper reporter on the job. To chronicle the many attempts of the dressmaker to rise from off her knees or to get the first words uttered by the fitter when she recovered from her swoon. And now no hemline is within the pale of fashion's realm, unless it zigzags in the most scandalous manner, and dipping in the back, that lugher of days that were, is a real virtue in a frock.

BEAUTY AIDS

"Facial massage" department of the beauty parlors are doing a big business by making faces, while one Hazel Rayson Cades, who claims the title of beauty editor, seeks an aid to beauty in facial expression in a well modulated voice and a careful choice of words. I am skeptical of the former. I believe one would be taking quite a chance doing the daily dozen and a half enroute to work, for any one of the sleepy pedestrians one meets on the way might not understand, and taking it as a pernicious insult, knock you for a couple of counts. It's really safe to try Hazel's method, I believe. If you detect a new creaking try a few snappy, short words of say, one syllable, delivered in a well modulated tone of voice with plenty of vim and vigor.

Miss. Koenja Atanasijevic, who has been elected professor of philosophy in Belgrade University, is the first woman to hold a professorship in any high institution of learning in Jugoslavia.
